1 PUY DE SERVE VIEWPOINT : After an uphill climb on a forest path, you will come to a plateau, in a somewhat untouched nature. The perspective is captivating in every way.

2 THE DANCING ROCKS : It is just as if a little bit of the mythical forest of Brocéliande had gone astray. Rocks sculptured with the ages forming strange shapes can be found there. ssh... they say that druids are closeby! Leave the rest to your imagination.

3 CASTLE OF LARNAGE : Nestling in its cocoon of vines, the château is the ideal place to contemplate, in spite of it being in ruins. You may even be tempted to open a bottle of wine.

PICNIC CORNER : Amongst "the dancing rocks" look for the most beautiful one and stay there for a brief, intimate moment.

A LITTLE BONUS

A geological crossroads. Here even the rock carries the name of a cake. The blocks are called "poudingues". The pebbles cemented together with sand remind you of the glacé fruit in an English pudding.
